PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

BY KRISTA NELSON

Is it just me, or do the years keep passing by faster and faster? I can not believe that the holiday season is nearly upon us. This year we are keeping with tradition and trying something new. We are continuing with the successful wine paired dinner, but adding a twist with a new location. I hope to see you at the Rose Garden area restaurant, Antonella's Ristorante for CSI's holiday celebration.

In October, several chapter members and I attended the West Region Conference in Pasadena. It was a great time to reconnect with other CSI members, to get ideas from other chapters' successes, and to learn about the construction industry. Friday's session on substitutions and "or Equal" was an eye opener. It brought to light how public agencies, product manufacturer reps, architects, and specifiers may not be fully complying with Public Contract codes. The code, as it is written, allows for sole-sourcing of a product to match products used on a particular project which the presenter interpreted as meaning that specific building. I know many agencies interpret this as allowing them to match products that are used throughout their facilities instead of just at one building. Proprietary specifications that effectively eliminate any other product do not comply either. Specifiers and architects must be careful when incorporating manufactures' specifications to make sure they are not including patented or proprietary information. At the end, the speaker mentioned that aesthetics are not grounds for comparison. There was not enough time to get into further discussion about this. I know there were several people questioning this since there are some products that are selected purely for aesthetics.

The other qualities such as durability and maintenance are all about how well they retain their look. Based upon the level of discussion and questions, I think this is a topic that we may want to explore further as a dinner program.

It will be interesting to see if our profession and the public bid laws change over the coming years with the concepts of Integrated Practice and Lean Construction. Our chapter meeting last month explained the basic ideas of Lean Construction. Its concepts tie right in with Integrated Practice and the use of BIM as a tool to allow collaborative, virtual design to really happen. Since CSI already brings all participants in the construction industry together it is primed to play a major role in shaping these new ways of working together.

I hope to see even more of our members attending the next two region conferences since they are in our backyard. Next year's conference will be in Monterey and promises to have fun social events with the jazz festival, along with great education and leadership development opportunities. The following year will be just as close since it will be hosted by the East Bay/Oakland chapter. ♡

MINUTES OF THE BOARD MEETING

CSI, Santa Clara Valley
(Draft, Board Approval Pending)
Place: Ramada Inn, Sunnyvale
Date: November 1, 2007

Opening

The meeting was called to order by Chapter President Krista Nelson at 5:05 p.m.

Attendees

Board Members Present:

Krista Nelson, RA, CSI, CDT, LEED®, President; James O'Keefe, CSI, President Elect; Maia Gendreau, AIA, CSI, CDT, Secretary; Jim Morelan, AIA, CSI, Professional Director; Hannah Moyer, AIA, CSI, CDT, VP/Director Professional; Marvin Bamburg, AIA, CSI, Past President

Region Director Present:

Dave Ingram, CSI

Committee Members Present:

Rietta McCain, AIA, CSI, CDT, Editor; Julie Brown, CSI, CCS, SCIP, Awards, Historian

Minutes

The minutes of the October meeting were reviewed by those present.

Treasurer's Report: item C: Revise to "Invoice was paid late..."

Revise Attendees to put Dave Ingram

under his own category as "Region Director".

Minutes are accepted as corrected.

Treasurer's Report

Equity remains high due to the funds from the money market remaining in the checking account.

Treasurer's recommendation of amount to be invested in an interest bearing account is briefly discussed.

Raffle is the only liability at this time.

A discussion commenced regarding the balance sheet and if it could show some meaningful history, perhaps last year, it would be easier to read the level of equity in the account and the equity trend.

A discussion of the acts of the audit team versus a full audit commenced. One opinion is that the audit team is supposed to verify the balances, not complete a full audit. A full audit should be done by a CPA or auditor. Other chapters are reported to do more detailed "spot checking". We would need to pay a CPA to do a full audit, but we are qualified to do more complete spot checking as a part of the audit. Other chapters have board approval of the checks to be paid, or a list of checks paid as a part of the report. Discussion of whether these items should be added to our report commences. The Operating Guide will clarify the tasks expected of the audit team.

Recommendations will be made to Wege on adding two reports: a list of checks and deposits, and comparative equity from year to year.

Report is filed for audit.

Region Director's Report

The West Region request Chapters consider if they have nominations for Region Awards.

2009 West Region Conference will be hosted by East Bay/Oakland, 2008 will be in Monterey in September.

Progress has been made on the Orange County issue, and negotiations are still pending.

The membership challenge will be 4% this year. For Santa Clara Valley Chapter this equates to about one new member per month, including retention. The prize for winning the membership challenge, as SCV did this year, is a complimentary registration to the West Region Conference

President's Report

West Region Conference education and leadership sessions were recapped.

West Region Committee is already working on next years' conference,

Special Events: No report.

Membership

O'Keefe will look into membership update. The Institute database is being worked on and is difficult to get information from right now. The membership committee will convene and brainstorm a blitz for new Region Membership Challenge. Moyer brought a packet from the Membership breakout session at the Conference and presented it to O'Keefe.

Educational Seminar

Chapter is hosting a seminar November 13th, "Introduction to the New California Building Code." Steven Winkel is the speaker. This seminar was hosted by the AIA in October, they had more attendees than they could accommodate. Flyers have been routed with the AIA newsletter, and CSI's membership received and email blast. We are also pursuing links to other chapters and flyers at the Building Exchange.

Programs/Technical

Committee will meet the 14th. A number of programs are being set up: changes in the code, structural system, storm water management practices.

AIA Liaison

AIA CEU form for the Education Seminar will be delivered to Gendreau.

Greeter/Raffle

49er football tickets, marble funds and wine are available for raffle tonight.

Annual Roster

Roster was delivered to board tonight. Rosters will be distributed to members tonight and the rest will be mailed.

Editor

The newsletter deadline is next Friday. The new format is complimented. Next issue will include write up about the new membership challenge from West Region.

Historian

Question of the location of the Charter: it is at the framer. Historian will keep the Charter when the framing is complete.

Awards

Proposed Resolution for the SCV CSI Outstanding Leadership Award is presented to the Board.

The Harry Hedges is a higher award than this one. This award will be given out annually, the Harry Hedges is given out infrequently. This is not a memorial award, but a leadership award. There is some cross-over with the minimum number of years served, but not the other criteria of the awards. This award is easier to get than the Harry Hedges, and is not a traveling trophy.

Bamburg moves to adopt the resolution and Moyer seconds, motion carries.

Website

Bob requested graphics from the new newsletter. Ingram and Nelson will pursue discussion of website updates with Anderson.

Operating/House

21 total tonight including the speaker. There was a brief discussion of the vegetarian meals.

WEST REGION CORNER

WEST REGION PRESIDENT

Janet J. Piccola, CSI
(714) 278-0288
jpiccola@frazee.com

The West Region Conference of 2007 is now history. The long years and months of planning meetings and midnight emails is at an end, but the memories of this wonderful event will stay with many of us for a good while.

The members of our San Diego Chapter were never far from our thoughts. The Mowats, the Lugos, John Dumesnil, and Dennis Hall were able to make the conference. We had several last minute cancellations due to the fires raging in San Diego. Quite a few of our members were evacuated from their homes. We believe none of their homes were lost. We hope all are well and we send our prayers and best wishes to all of you.

I was enjoying dinner conversation at the Awards Dinner as the photos Judy Holleran took throughout the conference flashed on the overhead screen. Every photo showed images of beaming smiles, friends with arms draped around each other's shoulders, a packed product show, good education sessions, hospitality suite fun and great conversation. The photos made me smile and made me think; THIS is what CSI is about.

We were privileged to host some new, first-time attendees at this year's Conference. It was so great hearing, first hand, the impact the event had on them. It is my sincere hope we will see them every year. Mark your calendars for Jazzin' with CSI, to be held at the Marriott in Monterey. The date: September 18-21, 2008.

I finally got to meet Rietta McCain, CSI, CDT, AIA, with whom I have corresponded by email. Rietta is editor of the Santa Clara Valley Chapter newsletter and has done a great job with that effort. I got to talk with Andy Boyd, President of the Honolulu Chapter, Matt Cardle, President of the Redwood Empire Chapter, Krista Nelson, President of the Santa Clara Valley Chapter and Janet Cornelius, President of the Sacramento Chapter. Most of these CSI members are our newer CSI Chapter leaders. Thanks to all of you for your hard work and participation.

The report of our San Luis Obispo CSI Student Club Members indicated they have an active year planned. We were pleased to see Joanne Hong and Lei Huey Yap Imperial at the Conference. Mary Alice is now classified as a student as she is going for her Masters of Science in Architecture. Mary Alice is a busy lady. She not only serves as the CSI Student Club Advisor, but also hosts an annual planning retreat for both the CSI-S and AIAS Chapter affiliates at SLO. The conference was especially meaningful for Mary Alice, as two of her former students, Warren Troung, now a project manager with UCLA's Housing Division and soon to be LA Chapter Member, and Erwin Gonzoli, a Los Angeles Chapter member, came to the Conference. The SLO CSI Club is already planning the yearly Construction Sciences Forum April 8-10. The Exhibit portion of the Forum is on April 9, 2008, so mark your calendars.

Duane and I wish to express our thanks, on behalf of our West Region members, to all of the volunteers who worked so hard. You were all wonderful hosts.

Finally, we wish to acknowledge Don Clark, FCSI, CCS, of the Sacramento Chapter, who has been a CSI member for 48 years. We have so many more long-term members, like Don, who have worked long and hard for CSI. It seems appropriate, now, to say THANK YOU to Don and all who have done so much to grow and nurture this wonderful organization. You have guided CSI well. ♥

MR. WOLFE GOES TO WASHINGTON AFTER THE STORM

BY SHELDON WOLFE, RA, FCSI, CCS, CCCA

One of the more popular exercises of the last several years is brainstorming. I have been involved in many brainstorming sessions myself, at different offices and at CSI planning meetings. I admit that I am not a touchy-feely kind of guy, and that most team-building and group exercises leave me feeling they are a waste of time. Have you ever looked at the mission statements that have been produced in the last twenty years? They are largely interchangeable collections of buzzwords, usually including world-class, diversity, empower, celebrate, and embrace.

While it is important for any organization to know where it is going and what is important to get there, I am not convinced that having everyone from the CEO to the night watchman get together is the best way to figure it out. I am even less convinced that a large group of people, some of whom do not know the difference between a noun and a verb, can wordsmith a single, fifty word sentence, with lots of commas and clauses, that makes sense.

Here is a website to remember: www.dilbert.com/comics/dilbert/games/career/bin/ms.cgi. If you get dragged into a mission statement session, go there and click "regenerate" until you are suitably impressed. You will end up with something like "Our challenge is to empower our members to dramatically engineer parallel resources and synergistically coordinate professional technology to stay competitive in tomorrow's world." Then go out for a couple of drinks, come back at the end of the day, and submit your mission statement to the boss. Odds are it will be accepted as is, with thanks for your remarkable work.

It is not that a group cannot come up with good ideas, or that it is not important for people to work together, but at some point, decisions must be based on sound reasoning. There are exceptions, of course, but the guys who came up with pet rocks and blank books just happened to stumble on something that was totally unpredictable and illogical - and failed for countless people you never heard of. For the vast majority of enterprises, new ideas must be considered in the context of experience and reasonable expectations.

I hoped I was not the only one who just "didn't get it," so I did a little digging and discovered that brainstorming must be done correctly to work; it is not just a matter of throwing out ideas. I also found that some studies show that it is less effective than other similar activities.

Doing it right

The basic rules for brainstorming vary somewhat from one source to another, but most are similar to the following:

1. Set a time limit.
2. Quantity is more important than quality.
3. Record all ideas.
4. Don't discuss the ideas.
5. Build on other ideas.

Whatever the rules, the facilitator must understand the principles to make it work.

There is some difference of opinion on what to do with the results. Some sources say the ideas should not be discussed at the same meeting, others offer a way to evaluate the ideas and reach a decision. Although all ideas are welcome while brainstorming, they are not all equal. Wisdom, experience, and common sense are required to evaluate them and decide which should be used.

Brainstorming itself is usually fun, with lots of suggestions and excitement, but it appears that the participants often express dissatisfaction afterward. The two common reasons are that there is no follow-through, and it is the same old thing time after time.

A better approach?

It was interesting to learn how brainstorming should be done, but more interesting were several articles that indicate it is less effective than advertised. I did not take the time to track down the original sources, but I found references to studies that indicate real groups and virtual groups working on the same problem had different results. The surprise - after elimination of duplicate ideas, the virtual groups produced almost twice as many ideas as the groups that worked in the same physical space. Furthermore, the number of good ideas was higher for the virtual groups.

Done correctly, brainstorming as a group can be a useful tool, but it is not the only way to decide what to do or how to solve a problem. If your planning meetings keep coming up with the same ideas year after year, and you still have the same problems, something is not working. It is one thing to think of an idea, an entirely different thing to successfully implement it. ♡

WEST REGION MEMBERSHIP GROWTH INITIATIVE FISCAL YEAR 2007 - 2008

At the West Region Conference in Pasadena Dennis Hall, Membership Chair for the Region, announced another region-wide Membership Growth Initiative. Building on the success of last year's initiative, the goals this year are:

- 4% real growth for each chapter
- Membership committees with at least two members

Santa Clara Valley was one of several chapters to meet the Growth Initiative this past year. As a result we received free registration for one of our members to the 2007 West Region Conference. The prize for meeting the new Initiative will be another free registration to the 2008 Conference in Monterey.

Our success in recruiting new members and maintaining our current members is due in large part to the efforts put forth by our fantastic membership committee: Jim O'Keefe, CSI, Rose Garrison, CSI, and Barbara Brosh, CSI. With additional help from all our chapter members during this year's Initiative, we will make our chapter grow and reach our goals. Please do your part in making the Santa Clara Valley Chapter of CSI a shining star in the West Region. ♡

CSI CONSTRUCTION ACADEMIES 2008

CSI will hold the CSI Construction Academies for professionals in the construction industry, in Orlando, Florida, February 7-9, 2008, at DoubleTree Hotel at the entrance to Universal Studios.

This event is the only forum where construction industry members responsible for contract administration, specifications, and building materials, can meet and engage in open and frank discourse on successful project delivery and the latest advances in specifications, contract administration, and product representation.

Comprised of three rigorous educational tracks -- Construction Specifications, Contract Administration, and Product Representation -- this comprehensive, two-and-a-half day program is for construction professionals engaged in minimizing risk in project delivery and providing the latest product innovations.

Three Tracks -- No Limits

CSI Construction Academies sessions are inter-related, and although participants register for one track, they are welcome to attend any session in any track.

Read session descriptions, speaker biographies and other details at www.csinet.org/academies, or register now by visiting www.csinet.org and clicking "Event Registration." ♡

This Holiday Season the Santa Clara Valley chapters of Construction Specifications Institute (CSI) and AIA are joining forces again with United States Marine Corps of San Jose for their TOYS FOR TOTS campaign to help the less fortunate of our community.

They request toys that be new and in their original packages. Please do not wrap packages.

See below for a drop-off barrels in your area. These barrels will be placed around the Bay Area, so it will be easy to find a container to place the new toys in. Over the past eight years we have donated just about three hundred barrels of toys. Great Work! Let's try to hit the mark of 380 barrels this year!
